

MegaPath Managed Firewall

Stop malicious attacks against your network in real-time

MegaPath Managed Firewall

The MegaPath Managed Firewall service serves as a first line of defense against intrusions and other threats against your network. It blocks malicious traffic before it can consume bandwidth on your network or last-mile circuit using an ASIC-based architecture to filter inbound and outbound traffic at wire-line speed. This protects your network against unauthorized users, dangerous protocols and common network layer attacks without any impact on network performance.

Available with MegaPath Internet Access or Site-to-Site MPLS VPN service, the Managed Firewall service helps you safeguard sensitive information assets shared between corporate headquarters, branch offices, telecommuters, customers and partners.

Get More with MegaPath

The Managed Firewall service is available in Basic and Advanced configurations, for either small businesses and branch offices or for medium-to-large and distributed enterprises. Both services can be seamlessly integrated with our other MegaPath networking and security solutions for extended functionality and flexibility. Together, they minimize down-time from individual threats, reduce risks associated with blended threats, and coordinate security alerting, logging, and reporting.

If you already have a firewall onsite, MegaPath managed services can work in conjunction with your existing firewall and equipment, giving you additional protection your firewall doesn't provide. Our services are fully managed, so you don't need to incur the cost, hassle and scalability limitations of a do-it-yourself approach.
